Category:Computer-aided design software Category:Electronic design automationProcess Control The engineering of industrial processes and automation is embedded in our products and systems. Our philosophy is to provide essential and superior products, which will enable our customers to achieve greater efficiency, significant cost savings, and more flexible production. Thermocouples for Process Control When we first introduced the Thermocouple family in the 1930s, there was just one line of thermocouples, which we called Thermocouples (TCs). Today there are more than 2,000 types of thermocouples. We are always in search of additional developments, which will provide outstanding performance, reliability, and market appeal. Our industrial line of Thermocouples (TCs) provides reliable and accurate measurement of temperature. We are proud of our range of DCs, ACs, and High Temperature TCs. Our engineering service, manufacturing, as well as our support technicians can assist you with your sampling and testing requirements. Edinburgh City Waveriders F.C.
