In addition to the main Elements application, Photoshop elements comes with both web and mobile apps, plus a photo-editing hub app called Creative Cloud. Some call it a hobbyist's Photoshop, but many seasoned graphic artists still use it as an advanced editing tool. I've used it for the past ten years. You can pick up an Elements subscription for $29.99 for three years. Contents: Elements features Here are a few of the new features in Photoshop Elements 2020. Image to PDF Generator – This feature can convert photos and other graphic files to PDFs. You can specify a font type and size, number of pages, margins, and more. Vectorize option in the Resize feature Now when you use the Resize feature in the Edit menu, you can specify that the resulting file will be stored as a vector image. New brush and other features New brushes with very fine lines You can use vector brushstrokes that are very finely hand-drawn. You can select the size and style of your brushes. Paint Bucket Selection tool You can now use the paint bucket selection tool to select, move, and delete objects on the canvas. 3D Tools You can now create small 3D models using the 3D tools in Photoshop Elements. Barcode The Barcode feature can automatically create a barcode using a custom font. The ability to add watermarks. You can use the Effects feature to add a watermark to your image. and perfect. If I could describe it I would say it's claret with an onion bouquet and a hint of cocoa. It is a delicious wine and was extremely well received by my family. It will be on all of our wine lists for the foreseeable future. 2011 Evagre Livon (Grapes: Riesling, Chardonnay) $14.90 (approx $7.62 per bottle) This wine is a nice example of good value Pinot Noir from the Eden Valley. It is a little soft, there is a hint of mushrooms and some tannin. The fruit is bright and fresh with a little on the nutty side. It is a very versatile wine and ideal to drink with food. It is well priced and is worth trying by those that are looking for a simple and affordable white wine. In a fun twist the staff at Sandi on Ballarat Street has been selected to be the experts for the 2013 Around The World in 80 Days KRI Wine Festival. This is a great opportunity for us to promote what we are doing. I'm really looking forward to working with the Festival and supporting some great local businesses. Would you like to be a "Wine Warrior" for around the world in 80 days. If so please contact me on 0449 864 637 or and I will nominate you! Our Riesling was so-so, but who can complain with an $11 Riesling? It is a good value white wine from Victoria's cool north-western wine regions, and is a good wine to enjoy on a hot summer's day, but definitely won't blow you away. I have included the real estate listing as well: if you can't make it out to see it in person, you may want to buy a bottle to be served this summer. But why call it Around The World in 80 Days, you may be asking? Well here is the story behind the wine. I'll post this in three parts: the first part will be posted in the next few days, and the other two in the coming weeks. In a nutshell, back in 1977, I was reading a travel book called Around the World in Eighty Days. You may have heard of it, if not, it's a historical fiction travel book written by Jules

A New York City man who shoved a photographer to the ground and punched him in the face when the man attempted to take photos of people sitting in a bus stop died of blunt force trauma to the head, prosecutors said Friday. William Guzman, 31, was charged with third-degree assault, a felony, on Thursday, a day after the attack on Nov. 7, police said. He was booked at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn. Police on Thursday said a photographer witnessed Guzman push a young man to the ground and then punch him. The photographer confronted Guzman, and he punched him, too, according to police. The photographer is a member of the NYPD's press corps and was working for The New York Post, said Assistant District Attorney Brigitte Trautmann. The photographer was not identified. Guzman is accused of repeatedly punching the photographer and shoving him to the ground. When the photographer got up, Guzman followed him, Trautmann said. Surveillance footage in the street showed the defendant waiting as police questioned him after the attack, telling them, "I didn't do it. I didn't do it," according to police. Police arrested Guzman in the street with the photographer's body camera on, according to a police spokesman. Guzman's lawyer, Todd Spodek, said in court Thursday that he would plead not guilty by reason of mental disease or defect to the assault charges. A pretrial date was scheduled for Monday in Brooklyn criminal court, Spodek said. The photographer was hospitalized and underwent surgery. Court documents indicated that Guzman, who was on probation at the time of the assault, had been hospitalized twice this year. He was convicted in 2011 on a charge of fourth-degree criminal possession of a controlled substance, police said. He was sentenced to eight years' probation in January and had been released from confinement a few weeks ago. Guzman had also been arrested in 2009 and had been convicted of attempted grand larceny and trespassing, court records said. The photographer, who suffered bruises to his face and nose, is a veteran photojournalist with the Post, police said. His identity wasn't released because he was a victim of the crime. Colleen Chivington, spokeswoman for the Post, said the photographer's injuries weren't considered
