We can't say too much about the game, so we'll have a Q&A with the game's Senior Producer Bruno Villagrán and Head of Franchise Development Jay Bothroyd to give you some more insight into what's new with the game. Show spoiler (Highlight to read) RPS: Fifa 22 Cracked 2022 Latest Version has a pretty new-age motion engine. We've seen demos of you guys early in the year and I remember being impressed - you had the players in motion but you didn't have the camera shaking or jitter. But we've seen the very latest and now with FIFA 22, the motion capture will be fully baked and you're sort of getting it in game. How do you manage that? Is it a difficult thing to get right? BRUNO VILLAGRÁN: You nailed it. You know, it was a simple concept and you know, I think what you're seeing right now is really exciting because what we've done, we didn't want to add some magic tricks into FIFA that kind of breaks your immersion, that sort of changes your gameplay, but we have. We have taken a tool that has never been applied into FIFA to improve the way you play the game and how you experience the game. We've enhanced the physics, the camera and then we've brought in the physik. We think that what is exciting is that it adds to the gameplay and the FIFA you know, and it gives us the ability to react and react within the context of the gameplay. We understand what is happening in real-life and it's the reason why the motion capture is so exciting for us because you feel like you're really in the context of FIFA. What are some of the technical challenges behind that? And are you adding real-time motion capture, or is that something you can do after the game is made? BRUNO VILLAGRÁN: We are adding real-time motion capture, of course. That's the Holy Grail. You know, it's the game that's never been achieved before.
