To view how an image looks in Photoshop, you must open it first in Photoshop using Photoshop's Window menu. The image files used in this book, along with the rest of the book's content, are stored in a PDF file. This file type allows you to zoom in on the images and to change the size of the image. The sample images in this book are all in high-resolution 300 dpi, and the fonts used are embedded fonts that are on the computer with the sample file. Setting a 'Photo Tone' As you play with the toning controls in the Basic Adjustments dialog, the image's exposure and brightness are increasing to the point where you notice the highlights begin to glow with a warm orange (which is known as the photo tone). Before you begin the editing process, you need to stop this brightening by opening the Basic Adjustments dialog and pulling the toning slider to the left of the dialog toward zero (refer to Figure 1-9). Figure 1-9: Pull the toning slider to the right to brighten the image's highlights. Adjusting Shadows and Highlights As with most images, you can adjust the shadows and highlights. In the Basic Adjustments dialog, which is accessed by the Shadows/Highlights command at the top of the Layers panel (refer to Figure 1-10), you have the following options: • Shadows/Highlights • Darkroom/Lightroom • Curves • Exposure/Contrast • Curves • Hue/Saturation In this book, we take you through most of these options, including how to use the Curves command (refer to Figure 1-11). Figure 1-10: Use the Shadows/Highlights option to adjust the image's shadows and highlights. Figure 1-11: Use the Curves adjustment to darken or lighten the entire image and adjust the midtones. Adjusting Clarity The Graduated Filter command and the Shadows/Highlights command are designed to help you adjust the image based on the look you want for your subject (or an object you want to use in the image). They work great for a toned photograph that has just too much image detail in the shadows and is missing detail in the highlights. Graduated Filter is designed for this kind of image. Most users first use Graduated Filter (see Figure 1-12)

The Eraser allows you to easily and quickly remove an object from a photo or dissolve an unwanted background element. The Smudge tool gives you the ability to simulate a dirt or fingerprint on a photo. The Magic Wand tool lets you select a specific area of an image. You can then manually select the type of brush to use. The Pen tool allows you to draw on the image. You can use it to add text to an image or make lines, boxes, and curves. You can then use brush tools, like the Paint Bucket, to fill these areas. The Gradient tool is a powerful way to add color to an image. With the Gradient tool, you can apply a gradient color to a photo. This is useful to create a subtle or strong color gradient. The Fade tool is similar to the Eraser, except instead of erasing the base color, you can fade it out. This tool is great for subtle effects. The Healing Brush tool lets you adjust and repair minor cracks or blemishes in your image. It works by automatically blending the best areas of an image together. The Puppet Warp tool lets you distort an image. It will create a warp effect where the edges of the image create a pattern that resembles a puppet. The Liquify tool is used to distort an image's surface. It allows you to move and scale objects on a photo. The Spot Healing Brush tool is used to remove stubborn defects in an image. The Content-Aware Scaling tool is used to adjust an image to fit a new size. The Rotate Tool is one of the most basic tools available in Photoshop. Simply rotate an image clockwise or counterclockwise.

click to enlarge Mark Wilson/Getty Images On Sunday morning, the president-elect held a press conference at Trump Tower with his transition team, which consisted of more than a dozen of his advisors, family members, cabinet picks, and others. By 7:40 a.m., Trump and his team had already taken a few questions from the assembled media, but this presser went into their heads, because they kept going and going. If the president-elect had the patience to do one thing he might want to issue a few reminders: Not now. Not at 7:40. Not one hour after a mass shooting where "numerous shots" were fired in his name. Not one hour after a gunman killed 22 people in an attack at a music festival in Las Vegas. Not after an election
